EXECUTIVE ACADEMIC PROFILE

Academic leader and scholar with experience spanning university-wide academic management, research strategy, faculty affairs, and governance. I have served as Academic Vice-Rector at two universities, Research Vice-Rector, Dean, Executive Director of a Vice-Rectorate for Research, and Academic Director of a Graduate School. I currently lead research, innovation, and sustainability at Universidad Privada del Norte, where I also hold a professorial appointment. I earned my Ph.D. and M.A. in Anthropological Sciences at Stanford University and have remained active in international research and publication throughout my administrative career.

SELECTED LEADERSHIP SCALE AND OUTCOMES

- UPN: lead research and innovation across a large multi-campus university serving more than 127,000 students and more than 4,500 faculty and staff across Lima, Trujillo, and Cajamarca; directly supervise eight managers and lead 58 professionals; manage an annual research and innovation budget of approximately US$2.1 million; approximately US$475,000 in competitive external research grants secured by UPN teams during current tenure.
- Universidad Científica del Sur: as Academic Vice-Rector, led academic affairs for approximately 15,000 students and 1,000 faculty, with five deans reporting directly; led curriculum redesign across five schools, SINEACE accreditation work across seven academic programs, and initiatives that reduced attrition by 15 percentage points.
- Universidad Privada San Juan Bautista: as Academic Vice-Rector, led university-wide academic affairs for approximately 20,000 students and 1,500 faculty, with six deans reporting directly; as Research Vice-Rector, scientific output increased by 25% during tenure.

CURRENT APPOINTMENT

Director of Research, Innovation, and Sustainability | Universidad Privada del Norte (UPN) | 2022-present

- Lead institution-wide research, innovation, intellectual property, technology transfer, competitive funding, research ethics, and scientific-integrity strategy across a multi-campus university serving more than 127,000 students and more than 4,500 faculty and staff across Lima, Trujillo, and Cajamarca.
- Manage an annual research and innovation budget of approximately US$2.1 million; directly supervise eight managers and lead a professional team of 58; oversee resource allocation, planning, research incentives, and university-wide support systems.
- Led the institutional research and innovation portfolio during a period in which UPN teams secured approximately US$475,000 in competitive external research grants during my tenure, in addition to international and multi-institutional funded collaborations.
- Led productivity and quality strategies associated with 18% growth in Q1-Q2 publications from 2023 to 2024 and a further 22% growth from 2024 to 2025.
- Work with academic leaders across engineering, health sciences, business, social sciences, humanities, and technology, adjusting research support to the needs of different disciplines.
- Chair the Scientific Integrity Committee and Institutional Research Ethics Committee and work through faculty councils and academic committees on policy and standards.
- Professor (Profesor Ordinario Principal), Universidad Privada del Norte, 2022-present.

SENIOR ACADEMIC AND ADMINISTRATIVE LEADERSHIP
